The many friends of Mr. Frank Riggs will regret to learn that he is down with Typhoid fever.

The Kootenay, B. C., correspondent of the Oakland, Cal., Maple Leaf, writes to that paper:—The marked success of Mr. Pius McDonald, formerly of Summerside, P.E.I., is worthy of notice. Mr. McDonald having acquired a good education in P.E.I. land and taught school there for a few years, went to Portland, Oregon, about seven years ago, and secured a position in the Southern Pacific railroad. Some time afterward he was elected secretary of the Labor Union of above city. His diplomatic qualifications to act between capital and labor, and his ability as a scholar being recognized by the unions, he was appointed to the responsible position of editor of the Portland Labor Press which position he will satisfactorily fill. Mrs. McDonald is also a native daughter of P.E.I. and sister of Pius J. B. McNally, formerly of St. Mary's Cathedral, Portland, Oregon.
